Report of the Department of Informatics on the conduct and results of the research practice of PhD students 2021 -2022 academic year

1. Text part

According to the research practice schedule, 2nd year doctoral students "8D01511 - Informatics" and "8D01124 - Pedagogical Measurements" underwent research practice from 01/31/2022-04/09/2022. The place of internship is the Department of Informatics of the L.N. Gumilyov Eurasian National University. To organize the research practice on January 31, 2022, an introductory conference was organized and held online using the MS Teams program. At the conference, doctoral students received individual tasks of the department, a practice diary, and were familiarized with the safety instructions. Consultations were held in accordance with the practice program.

The goal of research practice is to form a research culture among doctoral students. As well as the formation of their professional outlook in this area, related to the conduct of scientific research within the framework of the chosen topic of research work (topic of dissertation research) and its subsequent defense. Doctoral reports were defended on April 13, 2022 with the participation of members of the commission, the head of the department and supervisors.

During the research practice, doctoral students mastered modern methods of conducting research work in accordance with the topic of their doctoral dissertation with a mandatory experimental part. Doctoral students in research practice have mastered the skills of processing and interpreting experimental data using new information technologies. The results of the data obtained during research practice doctoral students will present to their publications.

In general, doctoral students have done a certain amount of work, and the defense of reports on research practice was successful.
